

Bryan Reissman
March 17, 2004

Manager Essay

Being a manager requires a lot of work and dedication. There are also many other requirements that are included in being a manager. One of the major requirements is leadership. Being a leader reflects your actions and it will get people to respect you. These are qualities that I have and do the best I can to show, not just to other employees, but also to friends and family. People will listen to what you have to say and follow you because of the respect that they show you.