

Matt Aldini
Essay

1\20\04
Per-5

Three religions or Philosophies that have influenced how people lived are Animism, Christianity, and Confucianism. Each religion has their own beliefs and originated from different parts of the world.

This religion Animism influenced how people lived. The region this religion is practiced in is Africa and Asia. A belief of Animism is everything in nature has a spirit. This affected people because they showed that they worshiped their ancestors.

The second religion that influenced how people lived is Christianity. This religion is practiced all around the world and most people believe in this religion. This religion is mostly practiced in Palestine; Christianity was also born in Palestine. A belief of this religion is that all people that have served well in their religion go to heaven after death, which is known a better life. The people were being affected by this religion because they would not sin.

The last religion that influenced how people lived is Confucianism. Confucianism is practiced all around the world also; one of the places is China. People who practice Confucianism believe in the Sacred Text "Analects". The people followed their social order so therefore that's how they were affected.

In conclusion, the three religions influenced how people lived because of its laws they followed. Every unique religion has its own laws to follow by. That is why Animism, Christianity, and Confucianism influences peoples life.